About Me

I'm a largely self-taught web developer who is passionate about learning and creating quality work. My background is in Graphic Design, but I've discovered a love for programming and web development. So I've dedicated myself to moving into that as a career.

My core values include integrity and responsibility. It's important for me to be authentic and honest, and work with others who value the same. I enjoy finding ways to stay organized, focused, and productive. This helps me stay motivated and on-track with my projects and goals.

Professional Experience

Graphic Designer / Customer Service
